5. Incidents of Abuse

A. Describe the incidents of abuse that happened within the past 180 days, starting with the most recent incident

Date: 9/27/2025 County, State: [redacted] Oregon

I booked a hotel at [redacted]' in Portland from 9/27/25 to 9/28/25, where Pasefika and I were staying. I was drinking and chose to have sex with Pasefika who was not drinking. He took advantage of this to choke me with one hand. He crushed my head under his hand on the mattress. Both times I tried to get him to move his hand but couldn't under his weight. Pasefika was aware I do not consent to being choked or harmed during sex many times. He demanded I shower after I had gotten home.

Additional details about this incident:

☒ I was injured ☐ I sought medical care (describe): _____
Strangulation

Respondent ☐ had a weapon ☒ was using drugs or alcohol (describe): _____
Steroids

☐ The police were called ☐ *(name):*_____was arrested

(2) Date: 8/17/2025 County, State: [redacted] Oregon

A police call was made by me to [redacted] the following morning of 8/16/2025 because he kept detailing his want to commit suicide from the day before, and stated he was going to leave to retrieve the shotgun from his friend Austin's residence. I entered his grandparents home with his family members for safety as I collected my final personal items. When respondent came home with the shotgun, he spotted me in the driveway and begun screaming at me that I was dead to him for calling 911. I sent him a final message stating that I called the police because I care, not to antagonize him. I stated I would leave him be as requested. He then began to state I am dead to him, and not to contact him. He then blocked me, to which I reciprocated the block. He was then blocked over the messaging app 'Discord' and my primary phone number. He soon after began to circumvent his own block by editing his previous messages to write in several hostile paragraphs post-attempt the same day. He admitted over text that if the police had tried to enter the home with him inside with the shotgun he would have attempted suicide by cop.

Respondent ☒ had a weapon ☒ was using drugs or alcohol (describe): _____
Shotgun, steroid chemical "MK" or "MK-677", Alcohol

☒ The police were called ☐ *(name):*_____was arrested

(3) Date: 8/16/2025 County, State: [redacted] Oregon

Pasefika began explicitly describing how suicidal he was after I described I was fearful of him after months of abuse in his home. He then stated he wanted to throw away everything in Oregon since moving back from California including me. He began cleaning his shotguns, telling me he was going to a range while suicidal, then asked me if I wanted to go shooting with him in the middle of having just stated he would throw me away too. I told him he was scaring me and I wanted to call the police. He stated that he wanted to shoot himself in front of his mother. He sent me a video of him racking the shotgun with ammo in the back of his car as proof of having the gun. I requested he text me once home safe from the range to confirm he did not commit suicide. He was drinking while at the range. He claimed to give the gun to his friend Austin's residence to hold at 1:58 AM.

Pasefika was my designated driver on a trip to Seattle because I have been diagnosed with a sleep disorder where I cannot drive for long periods of time without suddenly sleeping. I had jokingly stated I didn't like his favorite type of car, to which he pulled the car into a parking garage and began taking his items out of the car and stated he was going to get a bus home. He then yelled at me for over 5 hours inside of the parking garage where passerby asked me if I was okay. I told him I wanted to call my father to help me get home safely because I could not drive with my condition to go back to Oregon. Respondent aggressively berated me to dissuade me from calling for help.

Other events of Pasefika's documented abuse towards me

(3/8)

(5) Date: 6/16/2025 County, State: [redacted] Oregon

Pasefika and I were discussing our relationship at the [redacted] Eventually, we moved our conversation to the car. We were discussing how he feels like he can't continue the relationship because of how his mental state is, and I was encouraging him that getting help while also pursuing a relationship with me is possible. He got so angry with talking to me, when he raised his hand I thought he was going to hit me, and instead he hit his own steering wheel. The impact broke his pinkie as a result.

(6) Date: 6/13/2025 County, State: [redacted] Oregon

I tried to discuss Pasefika's disconnect from reality which leads to escalating hostile accusations towards me. I felt the need to record myself because he started to sound angrier the more the conversation continued. During the conversation, I feared he would hit me and I stated so at 11:24 in the second recording '[redacted]' I have on my IPhone. 11:24 – Chisei : "You are so aggressive right now."11:30 – Pasefika: "Go figure, because I'm telling you I'm on the verge of blowing up and I'm trying my fucking best."11:32 – Chisei : "Please don't hit me."11:39 can be heard of me beginning to cry harder because he began to get closer and more in my face while moving in a way that I thought he was going to do something with his hands to me.

(7) Date:_____ County, State: _____

(8) Date: 3/31/2025 County, State: [redacted] Oregon

From this date, I had moved my belongings into Pasefika's current residence. He would scream at me for hours every night until my separation on 8/17/2025. From 3/31 to 8/17, aside from the listed incidents above, Pasefika would consistently scream at me for anything he felt necessary. He regularly deprived me of sleep and would try to force me to drive knowing my sleep disorder. He would hit objects, slam objects, and scream at me about things I didn't do at all or I had no idea I was doing. When Pasefika was driving he would begin to drive erratically if he was irritated with me while we were in the car. He's missed red lights, stop signs, and would speed recklessly if he's ever been upset at anything at all while I've been in the car. Anything as simple as a tone or talking for too long resulted in him yelling and berating me no matter what, hitting objects even if we were in public.

One day, you won't be so mad at me for calling to save your life, because you matter so much to me. So many people love you. Me included. And everything will be okay.
I'm sorry you are in so much pain. I wish everything could just sort itself out. And it will, but I know you're the captain of your own ship. You can steer these waters. (edited)
I love you more than youll ever know and I'll leave you be. (edited)

if the cops showed up i wouldve tried to grab their gun this didnt help and make me feel connected at all i only feel less motivated to reach out the way this came about was not productive at all. i didnt get what i needed or heard, i was overstepped and the whole experience was beyond traumatic. i wont see people and my family the same. i dont think ill ever feel comfortable around them anymore, with them knowing everything. i wasnt ready for them to know. i cant accept all this at once. i dont ever think ill truly be able to open up when im stressed like this. i wont ever feel comfortable around people. i will never trust myself. i deeply regret even trying to share myself. it makes me feel my friends didnt enable me at all. YOU ESCALATED it to calling the police. its so ironic now because i feel like im talking to a cop haha. its so pathetic. 'your abuse victim wants to help' you have the worst case of martyrdom ive seen and its sad. you think you did it right when you acted selfishly and made it so much worse. you think you did the right think but you get off to trying to be a 'good person'. its also ironic youre telling me to take responsibility when you know what i said is true. youre not doing it for me, you did it for yourself. no matter how hard you want to lie to yourself. everyone sees it. some said your behavior yesterday was completely unacceptable and manipulative. krystal said it was blatant aspd behavior i should be aware of. the only wakeup call i had was dropping you from my life. would make things so much better (edited) not only do my friends think you made a terrible decision but so did krystal. you dont realize what you did. youre so far up your own ass, you think youre in the right when you genuinely made it worse. you realize i could be dead. i wouldve died to a cop. does that mean anything to you? i wouldve killed myself after being admitted and released, does that mean anything to you? the stress and trauma you just caused. its fuckin pathetic. youre lost, and you have fuckin issues. youre psycho. i have better things to focus on. my grandpas gonna fuckin die today. and yet you still decided to make my life yesterday a complete living hell. you did this in the worst way possible

Fika, I've been going through a lot right now. I have felt so incredibly scared to bring anything up or to say anything at all. I fear repercussions in the form of abuse or a sudden discard, both of which are often sudden and confusing, disorienting.
I understand today was not a good day for you. Today when we talked, there were so many things that stood out to me as "unsafe". Physically hitting a mirror today and then offering me to go to go shooting with you after you remembered you have guns in the house after talking about how you were suicidal, immediately made me go very quiet in both instances. I am not a quiet person.
I have played informal suicidal crisis counselor for my friends many, many times, and I didn't realize how traumatized it made me in my response, because I am truly terrified of that reality because it is one I am very familiar with. It is not funny. This is terrifying, i have spent so many nights trying to counsel my friends into not killing themselves.
I am not a quiet person. Something is so deeply wrong when I am quiet. I have been kicking myself recently for being so quiet around you. Because I do not trust that something bad won't happe

I'm always waiting for if I do anything that will make you flip on a dime. I'm too focused on that fear and being hyper alert to enjoy myself and that's what makes me so fucking sad. I am able to forget sometimes before I feel alert and hollow wondering if this is a temporary state before it gets bad again. That I'll be right back to where I was before, disoriented and a complete exhausted, humiliated mess of a person trying to not upset anyone.
I do want to believe that this is a positive step forward. I really do. But accountability also means the people that live with the consequences mean they still feel things and I am still suffering the consequences.
I feel fear when I don't approach topics from a distance. I feel terrified when you begin to talk about things that I know trigger states of being that initiated previous traumatic events I can't even remember from crying so hard and blacking out and I wince when you raise your hands. I am quieter now. I don't ask too many questions and I don't dare to be so expressive or lead with too much of "me", or my interests lest I forget it could warrant anything that comes my way.

In person when these events chock full of triggers that could make you upset further, I'm always trying to push myself to the furthest "corner" of the conversational room instead of being closer because I am afraid of being kicked and screamed at by the person I want to save who is drowning. I often feel like scurrying away. Which sounds ridiculous but I feel like a small humiliated animal who thinks I'm going to be hurt when I notice the smallest slight thing is off about the person who loves me, that I want to run off into the room of the house they won't see me in so maybe this time I won't be hurt. I am nonetheless still there and instead I opt for being quiet. Quiet enough that if you can't see me or hear me, you won't hurt me. I have often likened the feeling to being hunted by a dinosaur with motion sensing vision. If I stay still just enough, nothing will happen to me.

I am so focused nowadays with being still, and quiet. Trying to keep myself safe with boundaries from therapy in between like a balancing act because boundaries means being seen, and that means risking retaliation.

Being hugged on the beach and comforted two days ago, I felt calmer but still unsure. I pray that it is just because you've made the change recently. I am fearful it will backslide and I'll be back to crying myself exhausted until I can't remember anything and regulating someone else's emotions. I am hesitant on everything, restricted and quiet in what I say and always worried that I'll "really get it again this time" every time I fuck up. The optimism I once had of praying that one day you would bring me flowers is replaced with thinking "this is temporary, he's going to hurt you if you don't watch your mouth, or in the next however many hours for any reason at all". That the good is too good to be true. In fact, being able to speak about how I feel even if its only through text and at a distance feels too good to be true, like I'm a stupid idiot mouse who just walked into a trap.
I want to get rid of that feeling so badly. I just want to trust you but I am so unbelievably scared and terrified. I can't relax at all and it is so, so, maddening. It's not that I don't love you, quite far from it: it's exactly that I love you so much, that I am so distressed that I cannot immediately remove my constant suspicion of impending harm.
I ask you to be patient with me. I am so fucking terrified.

Censored his last name in all other posts, but he's placed that here for himself on twitter so I don't care. It's publicly available information, and if it prevents anyone else from being abused by a google search, it's Taulai.

Pasefika T is a sexual and physical abuser.

@threadreaderapp unroll

addtl: Pasefika Taulai guilt tripping me over my first RO factually stating events, angry it makes him look "unstable"

ONLY after convincing me to dismiss the RO, telling me he NEEDS to do deliveries to care for his grandparents and that he'd take responsibility for the abuse

I read the descriptions of the incidents and I genuinely see someone who's scared and hurt. I don't think you have it out for me
But it sucks that you'd see me like that in the same way you'd feel about being crazy. Ive always reassured you that I have no intentions of hurting you, and have hurt myself and act recklessly towards myself whenever emotions do rise
Yet all over this paper it's painted a picture that I'm unstable, threaten people intentionally and purposefully disregard your safety
When you know that isn't my intention
It's been a week or so with this paper
And I read it every day hoping I can find some new perspective or way to feel about it
But besides the suicidal episode incidents, everything else leaves a bad taste in my mouth
For many reasons
I care that you feel these things otherwise I don't think I'd have a want to change in many ways

I get that it's your perspective and how it made you feel
It's just disappointing that you see and feel those things. I don't think it's seeing me at all, it's just protecting yourself
And I get it
Just something I thought about alot too
And was topical
